RECORDS' CONTEXT

Name of creators:

Administrative history: The Northern Echo is a leading daily regional morning newspaper, serving the North East of England. The paper is based in Priestgate, Darlington. Its covers national as well as regional news. It is one of the UK's most famous provincial newspaper titles.

Its first edition was published on 1 January 1870. One of its editors, Harold Evans subsequently went on to edit The Times, but its most famous editor was probably W. T. Stead, the early pioneer of British investigative journalism, who earned the paper accolades from the leading Liberals of the day, and it was applauded by one as "the best paper in Europe."
