RECORDS' CONTEXT

Name of creators: Donald McKillop (interviewer)

Administrative history: Attempts were made by the depositor to contact the interviewer without success.

Custodial history: This item is a download of a recording found originally made on 1/4" open reel tape and transferred to compact disc format by the depositor. The recording was one of many inherited by the depositor from a former friend who has since died. The original tape was destroyed due to its age and condition.

RECORDS' CONTENT

Description: Robert Coghill, born Inkerman 1896 discusses Caithness life in the early 1900s

Appraisal: The contextual importance of the recording meant that it was crucial to save the recording for posterity, despite a lack of administrative context surrounding the interview and previous use of the tape.

Accruals: Not expected.
