RECORDS' CONTEXT

Name of creators: Thurso Technical College, North Highland College, AEA, Caithness Glass, Iain Sutherland

Administrative history: North Highland College was founded in 1959 as Thurso Technical College primarily to serve the training needs for the UKAEA. Over the years both the College's curriculum and its student complement has expanded significantly. The College aims to serve all the communities of the north through our campuses in Thurso, Wick, Alness and Dornoch. The North Highland College is a partner college within the UHI Millennium Institute (www.uhi.ac.uk) and it is through this partnership that the delivery of Higher Education takes place. The College currently has seven academic sections and annually enrolls in excess of eight thousand students. The College also has a Research portfolio including the Environmental Research Institute and the Centre for History. Thurso is the main campus of The North Highland College.

The AEA (Atomic Energy Authority) or (UKAEA) was formed in 1954 when the British Government set up a new body to oversee the nation's nuclear research programme. The role was to provide Britain's atomic weapons deterrent and develop reactor technologies for the nuclear power stations of the future.

Early achievements included the opening of the world's first full-scale nuclear power station at Calder Hall - which led to the construction of ten further Magnox stations - and the Dounreay Fast Reactor, which went critical in 1959.

UKAEA was also exploring the potential of fusion energy, and opened a purpose-built fusion laboratory at Culham in 1960.

From 1965, UKAEA branched out into commercial and non-nuclear activities to take advantage of spin-off potential from nuclear technology. The atomic research programme also continued, with UKAEA leading plans for new reactor types including advanced gas-cooled reactors and fast reactors.

A reorganisation of the UK's civil nuclear industry in the early 1970s saw changes to UKAEA's structure and role. The transfer of responsibilities in weapons research, fuel production, isotope production and radiological protection to other organisations allowed us to focus on our research mission.

The civil nuclear programme ended with the closure of the Prototype Fast Reactor at Dounreay in 1994. UKAEA had already turned its attention to a new task - that of restoring the environment of its sites as reactors finished operating. Since then we have made extensive progress, and in 2005 we safely dismantled our fifteenth reactor - ZEBRA - at Winfrith.

In April 2005 the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority (NDA) was formed to take responsibility for the UK's civil nuclear clean-up programme. UKAEA became a contractor to the NDA for management of decommissioning at Dounreay, Harwell, Windscale, Winfrith and the JET facilities at Culham. Also in 2005, the Government approved the Authority's plans to expand and compete for wider business.

In April 2008, UKAEA Limited was formed as a commercial arm, subsidiary company Dounreay Site Restoration Limited (DSRL) was licensed by the NII, and the Windscale site was merged into the newly licensed Sellafield Limited. This was followed in February 2009 by the licensing of subsidiary company Research Sites Restoration Limited (RSRL), covering the Harwell and Winfrith sites.

Following a sale process announced by Government in March 2009, UKAEA Limited, together with its subsidiary companies DSRL and RSRL, were sold to Babcock International Group PLC on 31st October 2009. The remaining UKAEA organisation then focused on fusion energy research at Culham.

Caithness Glass began in 1961 and is now the world's leading producer of glass paperweights with more than 2500 designs. In 1990 Colin Terris (who joined the company in 1968 as Head of the new Design and Engraving studio) was made a Member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE) in recognition of his contribution to British Glass.

The company also acquired a Royal Warrant as a recognised supplier of glass to the Queen Mother.

In 1976 the Caithness Collectors Society was established as paperweight collectors and enthusiast numbers grew.

In the 2000s the company was purchased by Dartington Crystal (Torrington) Ltd. and the whole business moved to Crieff Visitor Centre.
